DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 17 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 17, it is not clear what is meant by a "precursor film."

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in-

(1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effect under this subsection of a national application published under section 122(b) only if the international application designating the United States was published under Article 21(2)(a) of such treaty in the English language; or

(2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that a patent shall not be deemed filed in the United States for the purposes of this subsection based on the filing of an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a).

Claims 1-11, 14-21, and 24-29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Kroll et al., U.S. Pat. No. 6,432,547 B1.

Kroll shows a breathable film layer composition comprising water soluble polyethylene oxide and biodegradable polycaprolactone (aliphatic polyester) (column 5, lines 7-13 and column 6, lines 17-22) wherein the film is breathable and has a water vapor transmission rate of at least 100 g/m<sup>2</sup>/day (Abstract). Kroll shows that the film comprises about 10wt% to about 75wt% of the polymer mixture (column 1, lines 28-40). Kroll shows that the film's thickness is about 50 microns (about 2 mils) (claim 1). Kroll shows that the composition is used for forming breathable film layers and articles constructed therefrom (precursor film) (Abstract).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 12-13 and 22-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kroll et al., U.S. Pat. No. 6,432,547 B1.

Kroll is relied upon as above for claims 1 and 18. Kroll does not show the elongation at break as in instant claims 12-13 and 22-23. However, such a range of percentages of the elongation at break is a property which can be easily determined by one of ordinary skill in the art. With regard to the limitation of the elongation at break, absent a showing of unexpected results, it is obvious to modify the conditions of a composition because they are merely the result of routine experimentation. The experimental modification of prior art in order to optimize operation conditions (e.g. ranges) fails to render claims patentable in the absence of unexpected results. All of the aforementioned limitations are result effective as they control the flexibility and mechanical strength of the film. As such, they are optimizable. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to make the film with the limitations of the elongation at break since it has been held that discovering an optimum value of a result effective variable involves only routine skill in the art. In re Boesch, 617 F.2d 272, 205 USPQ 215 (CCPA 1980).
